Having had occasion a short time since to arend a camp meeting at Leonardtown, St. Mary's Co., Md., I was induced to take passaze in one of the line of steamers, that run reice a week between Baltimore and this ery, touching at most of the landings on the Virginia and Maryland sides of the river .cannot forbear to express my satisfaction with the trip, and the facilities afforded for safe and speedy conveyance of freight d passengers between the two cities, and to as points on the river that are otherinaccessible except by a long hot ride, public or private conveyance. To those nav have a few days of leisure, a deal change of air and scenery is affordescape from the heat and dust of the by a jaunt in one of the boats of this either of the watering places near the both of the river, or through the spacious becapeake Bay to Baltimore.

I took passage on the "St. Nicholas," Capt. toy. Soon after leaving the wharf we were summoned to breakfast in the cool, airy sahon cabin, and the usual varieties of fare, cluding fish and fowl, for this morning's al, were served up in handsome style and ample abundance. The day was clear and ant, with a moderate southern breeze flood tide against us; and the rapid moof the boat produced a cool current air seck, and in the saloons. The first landng we made was at "Bayd's Hole" on the arginia side, upwards of fifty miles below ity, in three hours and seventeen minfrom Alexandria, thus showing that and of the St. Nicholas was at least oal to that of any boat on the river, and afirming my observation that she gradualwidened the space between her and the al hout that started from Alexandria a w minutes after we left. The boats of this s touch at the various landings on either of the river whenever a signal is observthat either freight or passengers are to taken on board, not only at points directon the river but in some cases going severs miles from the direct channel into the seks or other tributaries, for this purpose. As these deflections are made for the connience and accomodation of shippers and assengers, one would imagine that the inst, comfort, and safety of both would reire that the several wharves or landing sees should be extended out towards the hannel, far enough to render them readily ecessible at any time of tide, and kept in good state of repair, with some slight shelor for passengers, from the sun or rain. But notice that at one at least of these points is was not the case. At Pope's Creek the er is not only destitute of any kind of proction, but in such a state of delapidation as to be not only uncomfortable, but unsafe, scarcely permanent enough to hold the boat in a position to effect a safe or comfortable inding for freight or passengers, and requirby the utmost precaution and skill in receng from it to prevent the wheel paddles om being broken by the projecting extremies of submerged wharf logs. The propriey of an improvement in this landing place aly passengers and produce, but frequently valuable horses and other live stock are to be taken on board, or discharged at this point. At 3 P. M., we reached Stone's wharf in St. Clements Bay, upwards of pinety miles below this city, where I left the lost and took a conveyance five miles by land to Leonardtown. The boats of this line are the Columbia and St. Nicholas. The fare on these boats is moderate, the meals seasonable, well served, and abundant. The saloons are airy and pleasant, and the staterous for those who spend a night on board, Mehaffey. tidy and comfortable. The trip either, or both ways, cannot fail to afford an agreeable | Borden Mining Co. paint to those who may desire or need the benefit of salt water air, and motion, and I am confident the proprietors will spare no pains to render this route as popular as it is pleasant, and deserving of the liberal pat-totage of passengers and shippers. [COMMUNICATED. The term so commonly spelled "doughface" by the New York Tribune and other journals, which, from their frequent use of the expression, would seem to have a patent for its invention, was first uttered by John Randolph, and applied by him to a class of politicians who are like the doe, or female deer, which is frightened by seeing its own face reflected in a streamlet. As the New York journals use it, there is no meaning attacked to it at all.

[The term dough-face, is probably right. It refers to the pliability of those who can be moulded as bakers mould their cakes to any but we have no doubt the increase in the pattern by designing politicians.
